

We are taking action to move the SIM™ Network forward through SIM™ Priority Work Groups.

Purpose of the SIM Priority Work Groups

To support KUCRL’s vision of creating solutions to educational challenges and to advance the relevance of SIM for today’s and tomorrow’s teachers and students, the Professional Development Research Institute (PDRI), which houses the SIM Network, will facilitate several work groups comprising SIM Professional Developers, leaders, and CRL researchers and staff. We will take action according to the following principles, vision, mission, and goals.

Our Principles: Basing action on deep and CLEAR thinking

- Creative-thinking
- Listening to understand
- Engaged, present, and purposeful
- Action-oriented
- Recognizing strengths and values

Vision (What do we aim to achieve?)

A thriving and growing SIM Network benefits today’s and tomorrow’s teachers and students

Mission (How do we achieve this vision?)

SIM Priority Work Groups make responsible and responsive decisions by deliberately seeking feedback and input from our stakeholders (professional developers, implementers, and partnering administrators) to design, enhance, and implement flexible support options for the SIM Network.
